THE GOSPEL OF LABOR. (What the South says to her Children.) I have snoothed from my forebead its sadnes
The over! Thank Heaven therefor!
would hide now with garments of gladness.
The sackcloth and seless of war. Nota word of the Past! It has perished.
Gone down is its beauty sudigloss:
Yet because it so proudly was cherished.
Shall we sigh out our years at its tumb? But the beauty and honor undaunted, still steadfast and stern as can be; By the laurels a Jackson has planted. By the hopes that we buried with Lee ct us wrest from the future the guerdons

That to resolute purpose belong; et us died from out spirits their ou dens, and quit us like men, and be strong! (As larg es je dure por distain. Like Nature's, that bountiful mother's) Bavannah; es smooth as the main.

My valleys shall whiten all over

With snows never born of the cold,
And grain like a Midas shall cover

Every slope that it touches with gold. The clink of the artism's manner
Shall scare from the forest its glooms:
In the brake shall the water-fowl's clamor
the drowned by the clash of the looms. Then up from your torpor, ye sleepers!
The dreams ye are dreaming deceives;
Go forth to the fields with the respers,
And garner the prodigal sheaves.

With Books gladden meadow and mountai With tinkling herds speckle each hill, And blesd with the splass of the fourtain The rumblosid run of the mill. Brave hearts that have wielded the sabre Take field of the Gospel of Labor: Put hands to the plouga of endeavor, Plant foot in the deep furrowed track; Set face to the future, and never One wavering moment look back, like this has been enacted in Ohio. It is, however, worthy of a fair and full trial. Of course, all the low elements of society will go against it, as they would against the Maine law; but it ought to command the firm support of every respectable and responsible member of society, of all political parties. The good people, and the people who do not even pretend to be good, but who do pretend to be lovers of order and of the public prosperity, ought to agree to leave this question out of politics entirely, and unite upon it for an experiment that shall hast at least ten years. Let no obstacles be thrown in the way of its fullest execution. There is no oppression in it. No man for whom two good meni are not willing to be responsible has any right to deal out intoxicating liquors. It oppresses no body to keep such men out of business; and it oppresses no landlord to deprive him of tenants who are pests in the community. "The People of the State of Illinois."
